Mr. Alfred S. Kliebhan, father of Srs. Camille and Joanne Marie, died on Tues., Jan. 3, at age 88. Mr. Kliebhan served as a member and chairperson of Stritch's former Advisory Board, directed the building fund campaign for the College, and headed the fund drive for the Sisters' St. Ann Health Center.

Former secretary-treasurer and a director of the St. Francis Savings and Loan Association, Mr. Kliebhan was the major benefactor of Cardinal Stritch College since the early 1950's and of the St. Francis Children's Activity and Achievement Center since the early 1970's.

Mid-Year Graduation Programs Conducted; Business Executives Address Two Groups

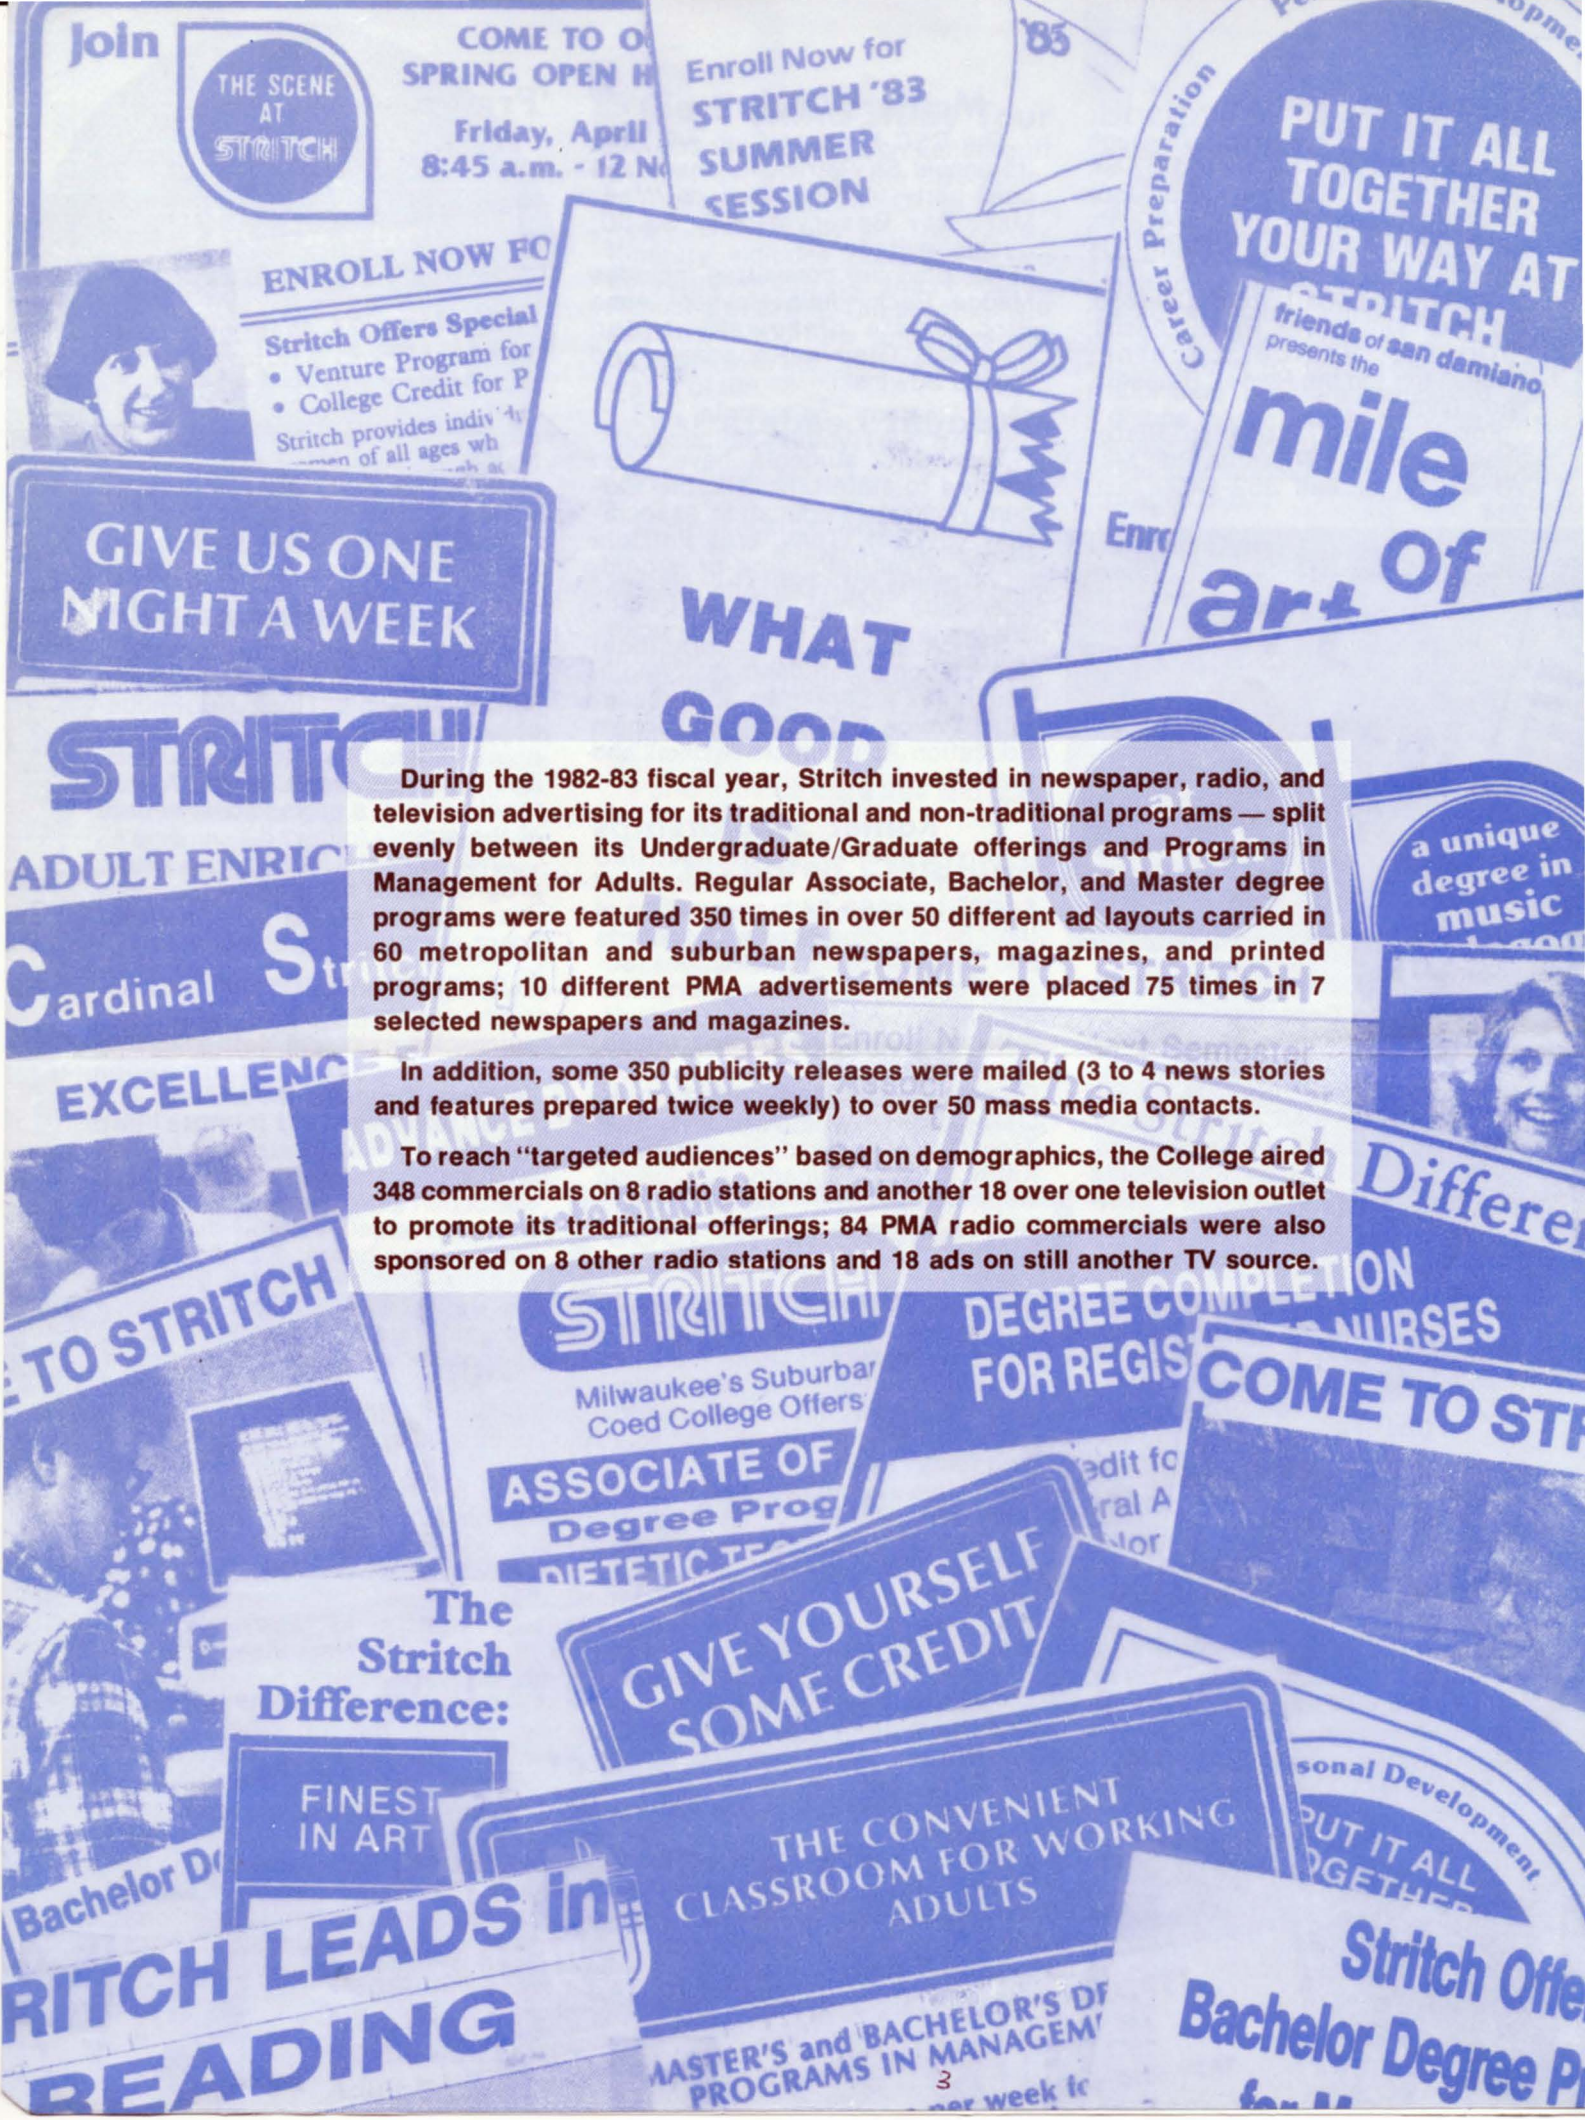

On Sun., Dec. 11, Stritch held its first mid-year Commencement Exercises in the Cousins Catholic Center auditorium on South Lake Drive, Mil. Another precedent was established when two graduation programs were held at 1:00 and 3:30 p.m. to accommodate the nearly 180 candidates, their families, and friends.

Sr. Camille Kliebhan, president, awarded Bachelor degrees to 77 men and women in the first group and Master degrees to 102 in the second.

Mr. John L. Murray, president and chief executive officer of Universal Foods Corporation, addressed the Bachelor's class, and Dr. Leon T. Kendall, chairman of Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corporation, spoke to the Master's group. Both speakers are members of the President's Advisory Council of Cardinal Stritch College.

During the 1982-83 fiscal year, Stritch invested in newspaper, radio, and television advertising for its traditional and non-traditional programs — split evenly between its Undergraduate/Graduate offerings and Programs in Management for Adults. Regular Associate, Bachelor, and Master degree programs were featured 350 times in over 50 different ad layouts carried in 60 metropolitan and suburban newspapers, magazines, and printed programs; 10 different PMA advertisements were placed 75 times in 7 selected newspapers and magazines.

In addition, some 350 publicity releases were mailed (3 to 4 news stories and features prepared twice weekly) to over 50 mass media contacts.

To reach "targeted audiences" based on demographics, the College aired 348 commercials on 8 radio stations and another 18 over one television outlet to promote its traditional offerings; 84 PMA radio commercials were also sponsored on 8 other radio stations and 18 ads on still another TV source.

Sociology Offers a Science of Society

"The proper study of mankind is man." This famous dictum of Alexander Pope has special relevance in certain disciplines at Stritch. One such discipline is Sociology — a social science that deals with man in his group relationships. Unlike the natural sciences which probe the physical aspects of man and his environment, and unlike the humanities which focus on the problems and values of human existence, Sociology invites students to set aside their own narrow and subjective views in order to study — from broader and more objective positions — the forces that shape their lives and that of their fellow men.

Hence, as a science of society, Sociology occupies an unique and important place in the liberal arts spectrum. Not only is it unique and important, but it is highly relevant, since man, essentially, is a social being. As such, he needs social understanding — the ultimate goal of sociological instruction.

Subject Gains Popularity

Ever since its rapid rise in the United States during the last quarter of the 19th century, Sociology has concentrated on gathering empirical data about the actual living conditions of people. Stritch's Department of Sociology carries on in this tradition by providing basic academic, theoretical, and research training of students. In fact, sociology majors who work for a Bachelor of Arts degree receive basic professional preparation for occupations requiring both sociological knowledge and research skills. They also receive the necessary background for advanced study in graduate school.

Practicum Program Cited

The Department's practicum program places students in community settings such as banks, corporations, hospitals, neighborhood centers, children's court, ethnic community centers, adult day-care centers, municipal recreation departments, and programs for the elderly — situations where students not only can apply the knowledge and skills acquired in the classroom but where they actually work with their fellow men.

Special opportunities offered by the Department include study in the Sociology of Aging, a rapidly growing field, leading to either the Bachelor or Associate degree. In addition, the Department provides a pre-law program and preparation for teacher certification.

Qualified Faculty Named

Sociology students have the opportunity to work with qualified and experienced faculty having a broad range of interests, including family study, gerontology, medical sociology, urban neighborhoods, sociology of education, religious institutions, social problems, criminology and American values. The Department's two full-time faculty members are Dr. Marilyn Schmit, professor and chairperson, and the Rev. Richard Breitbart, assistant professor. Ms. Donna Pauley is a part-time lecturer, and others have taught courses over the years.

M.S. in Health Services Administration Introduced in Programs in Management

Cardinal Stritch College recently introduced an innovative, non-traditional program leading to a Master of Science degree in Health Services Administration. This graduate offering has been authorized in response to requests from health care professionals — nurses, therapists, technicians, nursing home personnel, and social workers connected with medical or health care agencies.

The program calls for 48 weeks of academic work and one week of orientation, plus a 6-credit project/thesis. Classes meet for four hours, once weekly, at locations and times convenient for enrollees. Faculty members are successful professionals who make a living doing what they teach. Students can complete the program in approximately one year.

Academic Requirements Told

Admission requirements include a Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a 2.5 overall grade-point average.

The curriculum includes the following 3-credit courses: Ad-

Graduates in Sociology attest to the relevancy of the Department's offerings. They work in business firms, government agencies, education, corrections, youth work, programs for the elderly, and community and health-related organizations. A significant proportion pursue advanced degrees in professional and graduate schools.

Though Stritch's sociology graduates meet many challenges, they find that one of the greatest challenges they encounter today is to be able to supply the growing number of "futurists" with more than facts gleaned from computer systems — i.e., to be able to add another dimension, namely, concern for the facts of human existence. Actually, their chances as social scientists to meet this challenge are great, since their training at Stritch has shown them that "the proper study of mankind (indeed) is man."

Green Bay Diocese Focuses on Diaconate

Earl Brouchoud, director, and Sr. Joyanne Mueller, associate director. It will cover a three-year period, with three courses taken each year.

Among courses taught by faculty approved by the College will be offerings in Psychology of Personal Adjustment, Ecclesiology, Christology, the Old and New Testaments, Liturgy and the Sacraments, Social Ethics, Morality and Pastoral Dimensions.

Former Dean Continues to Serve College, Administers Continuing Studies Programs

The Cardinal Stritch College motto, "to approve the better things," has provided guidance and direction for Sr. Mary Frederick Lochemes, who has been active in shaping its destiny for some 40 years.

When Sister Mary Frederick became Dean of the College in 1941, she saw the rich potential in Catholic higher education. For the next twenty-three years, she set in motion an impetus towards quality and service. As dean, Sister sought: a firm, Catholic, liberal arts foundation; accreditation and affiliation with higher education associations; a curriculum integrating philosophy, theology, the arts and sciences; a well-educated faculty; cultural programs featuring international artists and lecturers; and a family atmosphere that would foster both faith and learning.

While dean, Sister Frederick saw the college expand to offer Master degrees, to open a branch in Boston and, finally, to build a new campus. Her perseverance and dedication in these efforts have become a legend at Stritch.

But there are other facets to Sister Frederick that are not so well known. After completing doctoral studies, she was sent to Latin America on a thirteen-month goodwill tour by the U.S. Department of State and the National Catholic Welfare Conference. In 1944, she studied in Mexico, necessitating wearing contemporary garb. She also co-authored a high school text entitled Hispanic America.

Currently, she is a regular fan of the Stritch Crusaders (men's basketball team) and the Milwaukee Brewers. She still teaches, moderates the Mothers Club, and coordinates the Continuing Studies Program at Stritch — seven years after her Golden Jubilee!

If one word could describe Sister Frederick it might be "generosity." But one added beauty of her life is the time she takes to enjoy the hundred-fold promised by the Lord to those who are generous in His service!
—Sr. Justine Peter

Volunteers Teach Religion to Handicapped In Weekly Classes Held on Stritch Campus

Volunteerism is vibrant at Stritch, if one can judge from the participants in the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD) program that is operative on campus each Saturday morning. On a day when most students relish an opportunity to "sleep in," several Stritch students abandon their cozy quarters to teach six individuals currently enrolled in the program. All six enrollees are mentally handicapped in varying degrees.

Each week, Stritch's student teachers take turns planning the prayer service which sets the tone for the morning's session by focusing on such topics as friendship, love or trust, among others. They also include singing as an integral part of the service.

After the prayer service, about a half hour is spent by the student teachers in instructing the six registrants on a one-to-one basis. The Saturday program is based on the Journey With Jesus series, authored by Srs. Coletta Dunn and Sheila Haskett. During a concluding prayer service, the six handicapped learners are given an opportunity to share what they have been taught.

CCD Volunteers Listed

Among Stritch's CCD volunteers are: Chris Odegard, who helps to coordinate the sessions, Sandi Scott, Trish Virtue, Gail Hawley, Sr. Lucilla Valluvacherry, and Janet Faulds. The following serve as substitutes: Veronica Gray, Gina Fox, Kathy Nerroth, Cheryl Lambert, Angie Moore, and Sister Coletta.

The student teachers admit they benefit from this program and find it rewarding. Since most of them are education majors, they appreciate the practical experience. Besides, they find that the warm and loving atmosphere contributes to their own spiritual growth, and this, they claim, is sufficient reward for their voluntary deeds.

David W. Kinsey, Cedarburg, has been appointed assistant librarian. He holds Master degrees in history and in library science from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Retired College Chaplain-Professor Dies; Long Record of Dedicated Service Cited

Rev. Msgr. James J. Graham died on Fri., Nov. 18, 1983, and a chapter of Stritch's history/tradition ended with his passing at 81 years of age and 57 years of dedicated priestly service.

The introduction to a feature story in Stritch '71 read: "Priest, teacher, friend... photographer, traveler, cyclist... in these roles and uncoun- table other ways, Monsignor Graham has been known to stu- dents, parents, faculty, and alumni of CSC for 37 years. He will retire June 1st as College chaplain and Philoso- phy Dept. chairman. His retirement will close an apostolate of service to Stritch that began on a part-time basis in 1934 and became a full-time assignment in 1947."

Received Stritch Medal

Msgr. Graham was honored at a testimonial dinner on campus, Apr. 25, 1971, when he was awarded the Cardinal Stritch College Medal for Meritorious Service. He was recog- nized for his teaching, counseling, and authorship of a high school religion text, Faith for Life (13 print- ings), as well as his texts on church history and theology used at the College for many years.

In retirement, Milwaukee's "motorcycle priest" continued to offer Mass at St. Robert and Our Lady of Sorrows parishes. Msgr. Graham also remained active in his contacts with Stritch graduates and attended his last reunion with the Chicago Alumni chapter on Sat., Oct. 29. Hardly two months later, a "month's mind" Eucharistic Liturgy was held in the College chapel on Fri., Dec. 16.

Memorial contributions to the Alumni Monsignor Graham Scholar- ship Fund will be gratefully ac- cepted and acknowledged.
